RE: EB-09-GB-0106

Dear Mr. Darbee:

The Federal Communications Commission has previously notified you by letter on May 4, 2009, that it has received complaints of harmful radio interference possibly caused by equipment operated by your company. This interference has been reported by an operator in the Amateur Radio Service. The complainant is:

(Name withheld)
(Address withheld)
(Address withheld)
Tel: (Number withheld)

In this letter, you were advised that this problem, if unresolved, could be a violation of Commission rules and could result in a monetary forfeiture. For this reason, we encouraged the parties involved to voluntarily resolve this matter without Commission intervention. If however it became necessary to facilitate a resolution, the Commission might investigate possible rules violations and address appropriate remedies, including monetary forfeiture.

You were further advised that the Commission expects that most cases can be resolved within 60 days of the time they are first reported to the utility company. In addition, if you were unable to resolve this matter by June 30, 2009, you were directed to inform this office about the nature of the problem, the steps being taken to resolve it and the estimated time in which those steps could be accomplished. You were further advised to inform the complainant of what steps would be taken to correct this reported interference problem. Although you have responded to both this office and Mr. (name withheld) within the specified time period, the harmful interference he reported to this office still remains unresolved after 21 months.

Given the fact this case has been ongoing for quite some time without resolution and PG&E has had ample time to locate the instances of interference and make the necessary repairs, you are directed to respond to the undersigned within 30 days of receipt of this letter detailing what steps you have taken to resolve the remaining instances of interference that are reported as being caused by PG&E equipment. Please direct your response to the following address: 1270 Fairfield Road, Gettysburg, Pennsylvania 17325. Should the remaining interference problems not be resolved within those 30 days, PG&E will be required to provide the undersigned with a status update every two (2) weeks going forward as to what progress, if any, has been made to resolve the matter.

If you have any questions about this matter, please contact me at 717-338-2577.

Sincerely,

Laura L. Smith, Esq.
